Progress at The Innovation Hub site

South Africa's first internationally accredited science park, The Innovation Hub, is progressing well. The Innovation Hub is a project of Blue IQ, a multi million Rand initiative by the Gauteng government. The construction of The Innovation Hub started about 10 months ago, the hub is one of the 11 projects of Blue IQ. Dr Neville Comins, Director of The Innovation Hub, says there are three particular fundamentals that we are moving into, the first is knowledge, the second is innovation and the last is collaboration.
